OIL PORTRAITS

These can be painted on stretched canvas, linen, or a variety of panels (depending on the desired effect and size). Quality materials are always used along with traditional methods, ensuring long lasting and stable works of art.

Oil Painting / Bust (Head & Shoulders)

This represents a detailed, life-size image that usually measures around 16X20 inches (with limited background and clothing details) and can be finished from just one or several sittings, or artist's reference.

$1,000 - $2,000+

Oil Painting / The Seated Pose

The seated or upper body pose includes all the important details in every element. The painting sizes start at around 18X24 and can reach approximately 36X40 or more. Made from all live sittings, or from photo and video sessions, and at your convenience of time and place.

$2,000 - $5,000+

Oil Painting / Full Figure Paintings

Life-size and traditionally grand in scale, detailed and accurate, this kind of portrait painting will command attention in any setting and be something wonderful to view, close or from a distance.

$3,000 - $10,000+

Framing is not included but the artist will be happy to be helpful in this area.

Varnishing of oil paintings used to be more important when the heating in homes was mainly through fireplaces or when oil lamps provided the lighting, so there was much smoke and soot in the air inside homes. Varnishing is not quite a necessity today, but it is a good protective seal that brings out the deeper oil colors and equalizes the sheen from the different paint affects.

Jack usually varnishes his paintings, though the paint must be allowed to dry thoroughly.

PASTEL PORTRAITS

Jack Anglin uses a variety of the finest artist's pigments on 100% cotton (acid free) papers or specially prepared panels. Pastels need to be matted and framed under glass as they always require that protection. One of the advantages of pastels is their 'flat' appearance--not ever shiny, and when displayed with non-reflective UV filtering glass they will always look great. Pastels are pure, quality pigments and Jack includes no chemical additives or lacquer sprays, so they will remain unchanged. Pastels of the Impressionists found in museums are still bright and beautiful after more than a century.

Pastel / Bust (Head & Shoulders)

This represents a detailed, life-size image that usually measures around 16X20 inches (with limited background and clothing details) and can be finished from several sittings, or the artist's reference.

$600 - $1,000+

Pastel / The Seated Pose

A life-size, popular view, the seated pose includes important details in every element. A painting of this size generally has an image area of 18X24 or slightly larger --and is made from several sittings.

$1,200 - $3,000+

Pastel / Full Figure

Not life-size images (except for a small child), such a large choice is often better suited for an oil painting where larger size panels are more readily possible (and no glass is required with oils). Certainly there are ideas and subjects that can possibly be better handled with pastels, but that depends on many things!

$2,000 - $5,000+

PAYMENT and DEPOSIT

Payments are accepted in a variety of forms convenient for my patrons. A deposit of one half the price is made after the details are agreed upon, with the balance due at completion. These prices/fees are for one person or one figure. Adding a second or third person and a pet, or pets, is of course possible at fractional prices. Prices do not include additional sales tax and any other applicable local taxes.

FRAMING is additional but the artist will be glad to help in this area in a variety of ways.
